The Native American Student Union is calling for Native Americans to gather together in a traditional meeting to establish red people's cultural centers August 25-30 in Fresno. Since Red people have been ripped-off constantly for everything for about five hundred years, they need cash, food, and camping equipment (its hard to find a buffalo skin anymore). Checks may be made out to the Bay Area Native American Council (BANAC). Money should be sent to Native American Student Union Meeting Fund, c/o BANAC, 340 - 13th St, Oakland, 94612. Food and camping equipment should be brought to American Indian Center 225 Valencia St, San Francisco, BANAC in Oakland, or San Jose Indian Center, 90 S. Second St in San Jose.

solidarity

Solidarity Films is presenting a program on Vietnam and Vietnamese women at the Free University on Saturday night at 8pm.

KIDS

KIDS formally KLFR.

KIDS, voice of children will have a new schedule Sept 13. We have 4 relay stations in Berkeley, one in N.W. Berkeley, one in S.E. Berkeley, and two in South Berkeley. We broadcast on a standard Walkie-talkie and we're trying to get an AM transmitter. We know how much it will cost and how to get one, all we need is more or less a hundred dollars. If you can scrounge up some bread send it to:

The Haight-Ashbury Switchboard is desperately in need of money to stay alive!!! If they do not receive some funds to pay their phone bill by the 16th, they will no longer be a Switchboard unless their landlord throws them out first! Altogether they need $500 quick.

Besides cash, the Switchboard also needs volunteers to man the phones 24 hours. Drop in on them at 1826 Fell St. and help out in some way.

recycle your garage

A group of us who call ourselves 'Recycle' needs a garage or shop to work in and can pay up to 15 or 20 dollars a month but we would rather have it free or trade skills for rent. Please call 843-2788 if you can turn us on to a place.

MIME TROUPE

THE DRAGON LADY'S REVENGE, the Mime Troupe's new play will premiere August 14 in Wahsington Square Park (SF).

The feature-length play is an Oriental mystery-thriller which throws together a sinister underworld kingpin, glamorous ladies of ill fame, wretched dope fiends and a maniacal Asian warlord. In other words, how the CIA and pigs like vice-pres Ky are involved in the heroin traffic originating in Southeast Asia.

Application for fall quarter at Oakland's Merritt College is now being accepted. All classes are tuition-free to Peralta Community College district residents who are high school graduates or 18 years of age or older. The Peralta district includes the cities of Alameda, Berkeley, Albany, Emeryville, Oakland and Piedmont.

Prospective students are encouraged to have applications and records on file by August 20 in order for them to be processed by the deadline for data mailing of registration verifications. However you can register as late as August 27.

Social security numbers, which are now used to identify all student records, up-to-date polio immunizations, and two copies of high school transcripts are required for admission.

MERRITT

PEOPLES MUSIC

I'm interested in getting together a collective of Berkeley musicians who would work with me to form a People's Music School. The school would be a place for musicians to share their skills-not capitalize on them. We would learn collectively in jam sessions and small ensembles. In addition we would offer lessons to people at prices suited to their means. Our lessons would not be impersonal, pressured, or performance-oriented. Instead, we would try to give lessons that could be both stimulating and a lot of fun.

Eventually we could form a guerilla street band to spark street demonstrations. In essence, we would take music out of the hands of the capitalists and give it back to the people. I'd like half the collective to be women, since music has always been male dominated and its clear that a male dominated collective could not change that.

There is a possibility that the Free Schools would utilize the people's music school. If you could dig rapping with me about it call or leave a message for Jon at 845-9548.

TRIBE CORRECTION: Last weeks expose on Rollingstone should have been credited to Craig Pyes.

PEOPLE'S MECHANIX

Up till now, Uncle Ho's Mechanix Rainbow has been playing close to the chest. We are intent on developing a new way for people to relate to their machinery, so we did not publicize our activities. Things have been going so well, tho, that we figured it is time to invite more people to our workshops, both because we can help others and we need help ourselves in order to grow.

Uncle Ho's was conceived of as a home-grown mechanix conspiracy, an effort to collectivize the skills and tools in the Berkeley area in order to deal with the machinery that is supposed to serve us. We are NOT a cheap auto repair service. Rather we are a loose collection of people with different degrees of proficiency in the mechanical arts who would like to help other people learn to work on their motorcycles, bicycles, cars, trucks, sewing machines, etc.

In order to prevent the reappearance of old counter-revolutionary characteristics like skills chauvanism (What? You don't know what a counter-shaft mainspring reservoir does? You clod!!! Gimme that wrench!!!) We kept our numbers small. This was a good tactic, because we were able to fix the machines and at the same time keep sight of one another as human beings. The hardest part of an engine to work on is the myth that only a professional can to the job. Uncle Ho's dedicates itself to smashing this myth and has fielded a team of fuzzy semi-incompetent follies for this purpose.

Having a month of successful Maoist backyard mechanix repair behind us, we feel confident to accept more people. Ideally, more people would not mean simply a larger busier group, but would result in more organic splinter groups, allowing for diversification without compromising the spirit of comradely interaction which has always characterized our work. A motorcycle and electronix workshop has just opened offering a place for intensive work on all motorized 2-wheel anathmas and electronic equipment. We also hope to get into more organized 'classes' at our Sunday afternoon workshops to go thru regular maintenance procedures; tune-ups, lube jobs, brake adjustments, etc.

Right now we have the possibility of moving into a large garage and possibly even getting some money for tools. This creeping legitimacy has not yet gone to our heads, thus you can still find us puttering about in the empty lot at 727 Hearst every Sunday afternoon from 2pm until 6 or so. We need a few more competent mechanix freaks so the responsibility does not settle too heavily on a few shoulders. We also need tools: a timing light, a voltage meter, hydraulic jacks, crescent wrenches, a compression gauge, a torque wrench and a grease gun. Most of all, we need support from the people. All people even if you don't need a vehicle fixed, then come by with a bottle of beer and a pocket full of funny stories. None of us likes cars all that much. We're just folks. The man's technology cannot defeat the Will of the People.

DARE TO STRUGGLE: DARE TO WIN!!!

STANFORD TRIAL

The first court appearance of the Stanford Hospital 31 struggle happened on the 9th of August. The misdemeanors entered a conditional plea that the felonys would get a good deal if they (the misdemeanors) pleaded guilty.

The lawyers for the defendants tried to get the judge changed to Demarco rather than Scott who is a total fascist pig. Demarco said no deal to that and Judge Scott balled out the lawyers for trying. Scott then called in the 31 on trial and set another trial date for Aug. 30.

The concrete fact discovered today was that the felonys will definitely go on trial. If convicted, the judge and jury are considering state prison only, which means one to life.

This case is important because first of all our sisters and brothers lives are involved but also because the people involved represent a cross-section of the community—black and brown workers, community people, students, Black Hospital Workers Caucus, and the Liberation Front of Palo Alto. Black workers are fighting all the way the shit the hospital administration is trying to put on them.

There were 4 times as many pigs there as usual at the court scene which means that they're getting worried about the support the people are showing. The only way people get off on charges as serious as these is by mass mobilization of the people. The trial will be continuing daily from 9-5 after August 30, and the people will be gathering to show support at 191 West Hedding, San Jose, in front of the courthouse.

CHICAGO, ILLINOIS—John Phillips was sentenced to 3 years in prison. He was one of the Chicago 15, who destroyed draft files May 25, 1969. While awaiting trial John went underground.

Last month he turned himself in, facing a possible 30 years in the slam (TRIBE no. 99). His relatively light sentence may have been a result of his conversion to the B'ai Hai faith while underground. This conversion was a factor in his decision to turn himself in.

LONDON ENGLAND—The three editors of OZ, an english underground rag were sentenced to 9-15 month prison terms for obscenity charges. Richard Neville, James Anderson, and Felix Dennis got the charges from an issue they printed that was totally put together by school kidz. They were denied bail but people were upset and bail was finally set at $240.

HONOLULU, HAWAII—"Three White Youths" ripped off a 75 foot yacht belonging to an oil millionaire, setting the crew adrift, and set sail for Tahiti. After the crew was picked up, the Coast Guard started chasing them. The kids got 250 miles before they were caught. Surrounded by ships and planes they gave up. The pigs are charging them with attempted murder and piracy.

DURHAM, NORTH CAROLINA—Liggett and Meyers, the enormous tobacco conglomerate that introduced "Eve", cigarettes for women last year, are ready to unleash the next step, "Adam" cigarettes for men.

Their ad agency, J. Walter Thomson, is test marketing "Adam" in Salinas, Ca. Galesburg, Ill. and Pittsfield, Mass. A heavy saturation campaign is planned.

The cigarette is rolled in brown paper with a clear colored filtertip, while the package and carton will show "a contemporary male portrait in three tones of brown." The hype reads "it won't make you more of a man. But then, you don't need to be."

NEW YORK, N.Y.—John Lindsay officially became a Democrat last week. HOT SHIT.

SYDNEY, AUSTRALIA—Muhammed Ali refused an 11,000 fee for a commercial for a car dealer. He refused because of Australia's racist policies (they don't let Blacks in). The ad would have been shown during the Ali-Ellis fight which was televised last month here. The car dealer is now trying to get Joe Frazier CARSON CITY, NEVADA—Gamblers lost $157,900,000 at Nevada casinos during April through June of this year.

BOISE, IDAHO—Inmates rioted and set fire to two buildings at this ancient prison complex after the discovery of an escape tunnel by prison officials. Both buildings were a total loss.

NEW ORLEANS—Five former inmates of an Angola, La. prison farm have testified about prison atrocities there. Lazarus Smith said he knew of about 70 inmates who were killed by guards during his 18-yr. term.

MARIN COUNTY—Doing business with the pigs can sure be weird. The Grateful Dead's former business manager is being prosecuted for embezzling them out of $77,000 and handling the prosecution is none other than Ass't. DA Garry Thomas, an old "friend" of Ruchell Magee. Like I say, doing business with the pigs is weird.

SAN FRANCISCO—SF mother Emily Fagell of 1055 Fell St. is suing Yippie Jerry Rubin for maligning her 10-year-old daughter by showing a picture of the girl and another child allegedly smoking a joint. The $2.5 million suit was filed in New York against Rubin and his publisher, Simon & Schuster, and also the social Education Foundation, which holds the copyright on the book. The mother claims that her daughter does not get stoned but then again we all know that parents don't always know what their kids are up to. Or, as my mother used to say to the neighbors: "My son wouldn't do a thing like that..."

DANBURY, CONN.—Five imprisoned war resisters, including one of the Harrisburg "conspiracy" defendants, began a fast and work stoppage in the federal penitentiary here. The resisters demanded the release of Father Daniel Berrigan, S.J., an early review of the parole application of his brother, Father Philip Berrigan, S.S.J., "shutting down" of the tiger-cage prison cells now under construction of Con Son Island, South Vietnam, and changes in US federal parole procedures that would allow prisoners to see the contents of their parole files prior to their hearings.

CALI, COLOMBIA—In what is apparently a case of dumb American jock being hoist by his own petard, U.S. Gymnast James Culhane Jr. was beaten by a group of Cubans after trying to steal the Cuban flags during the Pan Am games (during which games the U.S. lost in basketball—can you imagine?). The U.S. Olympic Committee has demanded that the Cubans apologize, an arrogant gesture at the very least. (Maybe we should go to war with Cuba over the incident.) Culhane's condition is not serious, but his indiscretion is.

TEXAS—If you had your picture taken every three minutes, sixteen hours a day for five years, you'd have about 500,000 pictures. There are 500,000 pictures of Lyndon Johnson in the new Johnson Library in Houston. Photographic old fart, ain't he?

WASHINGTON, D.C.—Representative Bob Wilson (Rep. California) is asking that women be appointed as federal marshalls His request is aligned with a recent suit by two women against the FBI, which won't let women be agents.

NEW YORK CITY—An oil slick has suddenly appeared here hugging the coast between the narrows and Coney Island. Police helicopter pilots first spotted the slick. Its cause is unknown, but three freighters are anchored nearby.

Ernie Olson is back in jail. He lost his appeal to the 9th circuit court of appeals on his contempt sentence that he got for not testifying before the Federal Grand Jury in Tucson. The appeal was based on fourth amendment protection from illegal wiretaps. The next step is to the Supreme Court. The defense is expected to ask Justice Douglas to set bail pending that hearing.

los angeles

--The Los Angeles Federal Grand Jury, which is investigating the rip-off of the Pentagon Papers, has reopened. Its reasons may have been either to secure more indictments on Ellsberg (like conspiracy) or else to indict more people. It subpoenaed 5 new witnesses including relatives of Ellsberg.

The L.A. GJ is investigating how the papers were ripped off while the rumored Grand Jury in Boston is hearing testimony on how the papers were published.

So far only Antony Russo and Linda Sinay have been subpoenaed. Ms. Sinay testified that Ellsberg copied several thousand pages on her Xerox machine. Russo refused to testify, was granted immunity, refused to testify again and was jailed. He was granted bond, at least till his appeal on August 16th, (late flash, this was refused and Russo goes back to the slam on Monday).

August 16th was also the day Ellsberg was arraigned on his charges in L.A.

san francisco

Last Thursday (Aug 5), while Linda Reynolds refused to testify on the 17th floor of the Federal Building, about 400 people rallied outside in support of her.

Linda's 20 minute non-testimonial was spent offensively reacting to the Grand Jury. The only question that David Bancroft, assistant U.S. attorney and Grand Jury "strike force" head in S.F. got to ask was "where did you live during March?" Linda refused to answer and demanded to know if there were any illegal wiretaps or any other illegal means used to secure information which led to her subpoena.

Bancroft told her she "had no right to ask that question of the Grand Jury." But she does have the right. Thus stymied, the Grand Jury dismissed her and called her back to appear September 9 at 10 am for further questioning.

The energy outside was really high. Everybody digging on our numbers. Music and guerrilla theatre, and then picketing, some speeches from National Lawyers Guild and Linda's lawyer.

The only down was the manipulative leadership of R.U., treating people as only so many bodies for "their" demonstration, pushing people physically and with their bullhorns.

Linda will be back Sept. 9. Be There! Eternal vigilance is the price of freedom.

DEATH

Twenty-six years ago, on August 6, the United States dropped an atomic bomb on Hiroshima; three days later, on August 9, Nagasaki was bombed. Today, people are still dying from atomic diseases caused by the bombs.

In remembrance of this genocidal atrocity, a People's Press Conference was held in San Francisco Monday August 9 in front of the Presidio-Pentagon West--to protest the construction of the Western Medical Institute of Research (WMIR) on Presidio grounds.

We were treated to guerilla theater performed by Army vets disguised as various members of the corporate-military hierarchy. (Business Exec (to Nixon): "Thanks for the 800 million new customers, Dick.")

Representatives from COMBAT spoke to us about WMIR, and gave their reasons for believing that the "Medical Institute" is going to be a center for chemical/biological/radiological weapons warfare research. They were supported by speeches of various members of COMBAT: the Asian Coalition (a strong group representing the large Bay Area population including Japanese, Chinese, and Phillipine groups), Scientists and Engineers for Social and Political Action (SESPA), the Committee for the September 2nd Women's Action (urging us all to march against Pentagon West September 2!!)

A Vietnamese student spoke to us of the horrors of chemical/biological warfare. The ravaged land. Babies born with twenty fingers, with three legs. He brought home to us the reality of the US dirty warfare.

COMBAT had requested by telegram that Lt. Gen. Alexander D. Surles, Jr., commanding general of the U.S. Sixth Army, be available for an interview following the press conference to answer the charges put forth by COMBAT. Naturally, true to the slimy organization he represents, he didn't show.

COMBAT representatives and members of the Press attempted to enter the Presidio to confront the War Machine. Of course we were stopped before we could get very far (by "Chicken" Col. Servider, looking for all the world like a grinning skull, and Col. Powell, Public Affairs representative). What followed was a running dialogue between Powell of Public Affairs and Neil Gotanda of the Asian Coalition--Gotanda trying to get us all in the Presidio for a discussion of COMBAT's charges; Powell insisting that there was no one to whom we could talk who could properly represent the Army in connection with WMIR (typical Army bullshit-evasion-of-the-issue tactic).

Finally, after much hassling, Neil left Powell with a packet containing COMBAT's position with regard to the WMIR, which Powell promised to relay up the chain of command. Supposedly after the proper authorities have had a chance to consider the information, a discussion panel will be set up--the People vs. the Army on the WMIR question (in one or two weeks time). Watch the TRIBE for further information.

DEATH

The Army has begun construction on a new monolith whose purpose is shrouded in the usual military evasive statements and outright lies. The building in question is the Western Military Institute of Research (WMIR) to be constructed at the Presidio. The Army has stated that WMIR will simply study "exotic tropical diseases, primarily those of Southeast Asia, for the protection of American troops in the field."

Revolutionary forces have reason to believe otherwise. A group called COMBAT (Coalition Opposed to Medical and Biological Attack) has been formed to keep the public informed about the chemical/biological/radiological warfare research of the US government and its military arm. They point out the fact that in the past the military has often concealed under the smokescreen of "medical research" some of its plans for CBRW research at places like Fort Detrick in Maryland and the Edgewood Arsenal in Alaska--both centers of chemical and biological weaponry research.

♀ SEPTEMBER 2-5 ♀

On Sept. 2nd through 5th women will be getting together in San Francisco to celebrate Vietnamese Independence Day.

Sisters, come with your revolutionary love, energy, and ideas, but angry at the genocide being committed against the Vietnamese people. Bring your banners and flags on Saturday for the march on the Presidio. Displays, music, theater, or workshops are welcome. You can make the celebration of the Vietnamese struggle what it should be.

Come to the Tuesday night meetings at 8:00 at 1380 Howard St. SF, or call us at 861-6466 Monday through Saturday from two to five.

If you or your friends have land, we are still looking for a place to camp.

Here's what will be happening each day:

Thursday, Sept. 2—Vietnamese Independence Day; films and get together (location to be announced.)

Friday, Sept. 3—Anniversary of death of Ho Chi Minh; leafletting and guerilla theater about march, hex on contractor of research center, party in evening.

Saturday, Sept. 4—March on Presidio; gather at park across from World Trade Center (ferry bldg.) at end of Market St. SF—High Noon!

Sunday, Sept. 5—Festival in Park; poets, music, dance, workshops, presentations.

They know that in October 1970 the defense establishment appropriated funds for MIR, that in November of 1970 Dr. Carl Larson published an article in Military Review (an official military research journal) on "Ethnic Weapons." This article detailed much of the research leading to the possibility of military use of ethnic weapons—weapons capable of slaughtering people on a selective basis of racial characteristics—and predicted that such weapons are "forthcoming" by military research and development commands.

The US government has consistently used CBRW weapons in Asia—Hiroshima, Nagasaki, Korea, Indochina—and is the only major power in the world which continues to refuse to ratify the Geneva protocol of 1925 banning the use of chemical and biological weaponry. The United States has never hesitated to use CBR warfare on Asian peoples and continues to fund CBRW weapons research.

The military states that WMIR is being built to study exotic diseases which our soldiers might pick up in Third World countries. It seems rather strange that the Army would just be getting around to studying such diseases at a time when we are supposed to be pulling our ground troops out of Indochina. When the military was asked why they chose San Francisco, a major earthquake zone, for their new institute, they replied that there was a lot of scientific talent in the area. We know that Letterman (the existing medical facility at Presidio) has close ties to the UC Medical Center—there is even a closed circuit TV link between the two. Another attraction may have been San Francisco's cosmopolitan population. Of special interest to the Army are any Asian citizens who could be induced to be guinea pigs for the experiments on Asian diseases at W.M.I.R.

The prototype for the design of the WMIR buildings was given by the Army to be the Medical Biological Research Laboratory at Fort Detrick in Maryland. The plans call for large building spaces to be equipped with extensive biological seals, sterilized air locks and ultraviolet barriers. Evidently a good deal of the laboratory space will be devoted to experimentation with highly contagious and virulent diseases. It is also interesting to note that the Medical Biological Research Laboratory at Fort Detrick is heavily staffed with medical personnel from the Army Medical Corps. Thus it is not surprising that a medical facility should be chosen for CBW research.

Although the military says no classified work will be done at WMIR, all their scientists will need to have security clearances. The reason, the Army says, is that the employees will have to make use of secret documents. If they were just doing medical research, why would they have to make use of classified literature?

private rights

A victory for GI rights was won on July 28 when all charges were dropped against Pvt. Ed Jurenas, one of a group of GIs who publish the ARCTIC ARSENAL, a GI antiwar newspaper. The military's attempt to suppress the ARSENAL began on May 20 when a Ft. Greeley regulation prohibiting the distribution of literature was posted on the base. That this was aimed at the ARSENAL was made clear the next day when officials searched Jurenas' locker and confiscated files and other materials used to put out the paper. Jurenas was subsequently charged with disrespect to an officer and conduct impairing the loyalty, discipline and morale of the Army. He was also relieved of his regular MP duties and transferred to the Presidio.

The GI Civil Liberties Defense Committee provided legal aid and also organized support among members of congress and civilians. In addition, several public meetings were held by GIs at Ft. Greeley in support of Jurenas. Apparently the brass got uptight at all the attention because on July 28 Jurenas was informed that all charges against him were dropped.

Huey Newton is scheduled to go on trial October 12th for the third time, stemming from an incident in which an Oakland pig was killed and Huey was shot in the stomach.

Huey was first tried on a murder charge, found guilty of manslaughter, and sentenced to fifteen years. This conviction was overturned by an appeals court which found that his judge in that case had been derelict in the performance of his fascist duties and had not instructed the jury on the legal technicalities involved in Huey's unconsciousness after he was shot. (It was clearly proved in the most recent trial that he had been shot first.)

So Huey went on trial again, this time for manslaughter. There is, apparently, no suggestion of double jeopardy in trying a man first for murder and then for manslaughter. He was again defended by Charles Garry who, curiously, exercised only four of his ten peremptory challenges in the selection of a jury. The prosecutor was named Whyte, an unintentional irony of the racist proceedings. He pursued the prosecution with an unrelenting spitefulness and singleness of purpose.

Nevertheless, the jury was unable to agree on Huey's guilt. One middle-aged white woman, convinced by the proof that Huey was shot first and that he was in shock or unconscious afterwards, held out for acquittal. Thus, after six days of deliberations, the jury was deadlocked and Judge Hove (formerly with the FBI) declared a mistrial.

The carnival will begin again in October unless Charles Garry can convince an appeals court to dismiss the whole thing on the grounds that a vital piece of evidence (the blood stained lawbook from which Huey was reciting his rights to Officer Frey) was lost by the state. How often they will try to railroad the same man for the same crime and at what expense are anybody's guesses.

Soledad Bros

After months of important pre-trial motions the trial of the Soledad Brothers was scheduled to begin last week. However, because the defense motion to disqualify Judge Carpeneti for cause, was denied by Judge Carter, the defense had to use their one peremptory challenge to remove Carpeneti. This means a delay of two weeks till a new judge can familiarize himself with the case.

The courtroom had an overflow of spectators Monday morning. The glass and block painted steel barrier made it like watching the trial on sidescreen tv.

After the courtroom was full, the pigs realized that the Associated Press and United Press International reporters hadn't made it in. They corrected this by letting them inside the barrier. A few minutes later they let the rest of the pig press into the jury box.

The brothers came in smiling, fists raised. We stood and saluted "Free the Soledad Brothers, Free the Soledad Brothers." Louder echoing back from the glass wall.

Carpeneti slipped in with no order to rise, the pig press stood anyway. He immediately began a speech about how the whole scene is like "Alice in Wonderland" and about how the English courts are much better because there isn't so much emphasis on procedure and more on the facts(???)

He stated that the hearing would deal with the peremptory challenge. John Thorne, attorney for George Jackson, replied, pointing out that the court was indeed like "Alice in Wonderland" but only because of the machinations of the judge. He also objected to the barrier that made the proceedings into a "Court of fascism" and to any proceeding before Carpeneti.

Carpeneti's objection to the challenge was based on the fact that he claimed it to be "Untimely filed." After presentations from both the defense and the D.A., the judge commended the D.A. for "bring up points unfavorable to his position" and then accepted the peremptory challenge and continued the trial for two weeks.

The new judge will be Frank W. Shaw. He will be presumably deciding on the other motions still undecided. Those motions include a decision on the barrier and a move to make the court appoint attorneys, investigators and psychiatrists because the financial burden can't be handled by the Brothers.

The other three motions deal with questions of who will serve on the jury and with the present housing of the defendants. At the present time they are in the "adjustment center" at San Quentin which means they are locked up 23½ hours a day in individual cells, rather than being on the "mainline" of the prison where they would have much greater freedom to move about and associate with fellow prisoners. "Putting them in an adjustment center when they have not been adjudged guilty is a clear violation of their rights in view of the fact that they were on the mainline prior to these charges being brought against them," said John Thorne, San Jose California, attorney for George Jackson. He went on to point out that he hoped the Court would, as a result of the motion, order the officials at San Quentin to return the men to the mainline of the prison and take them out of what, in essence, is solitary confinement.

The motions dealing with the question of the jury have asked the Court to take the necessary steps to include citizens between the ages of 18 and 21 on the jury roles, and to further include non-registered Blacks, Chicanos, and Third World People, and the poor. The attorneys pointed out that at the present time in San Francisco anyone under 18 is excluded automatically even though they have now been given the right to vote and even though they are registered. In addition, with a jury being selected only from registered voters, many non-registered community people are excluded from the panel, and according to the attorneys, the statutes providing the method of constituting jury panels in San Francisco are unconstitutionally void in that they lack standards to assure jury panels representing a fair cross-section of the community.

* The next hearing will be August 23 at 10 am at the Hall of Justice (sic) in S.F.

NO MORE ABC's

Department of corrections Director Raymond Procnier Friday upheld a decision by Folsom Warden Walter Cravens to ban correspondence courses at Folsom State Prison. The courses in question and Introductory Psychology, English Composition and Foundations of Mathematics and are free to inmates through the Committee for Prisoner Humanity and Justice.

Though the courses are presently available to inmates at San Quentin, the Department decided that "staff time for inspection" was "not now available" at Folsom. CPHJ spokesmen pointed out that the courses are sealed and sent by the publisher to the prisons.

Taking the courses would increase inmates chances for parole by qualifying them for jobs upon release. CPHJ spokesman Larry Padway stated that "the Department is interested in protecting their infamous program of sensory deprivation in the isolation area" at the inmates expense.

FREE RIDERS SERVICE

The Committee for Prisoner Humanity and Justice in San Raphael, announces that the San Quentin Free-Riders Service will be taking families and friends of convicts to and from the state prison. The Free-Riders Service will be stationed across from the San Raphael Bus Depot, located on Third St, just south of Lincoln. It will take passengers between 9 am and 3 pm on Fridays, Saturdays, and Sundays.

CPHJ is seeking the volunteer services of conscientious objectors. It is specifically interested in locating lawyers, law students and social scientists who can assist in its legal and research effort. For further information contact Glen Baron at 454-5700 in San Raphael.

Dear TRIBE:

tribaletters

I responded last Friday to an ad by inmate Johnny Boggs, Fed. Reformatory, El Reno, Okla. It was a very bland letter, since I assumed all mail would be read.

My letter was returned to me in its original envelope, which had been opened, and closed with one piece of scotch tape. Included in their brown envelope was the enclosed memorandum.

U.S. GOV'T MEMORANDUM: Inmate Boggs request for correspondence was unauthorized and letter is being returned because you are not on his approved mailing list.

Now I'm more pissed off than ever that inmates are cemented in. Enclosed is my $1.00 for ten prisoners. I don't subscribe because I have a groovy habit of buying my TRIBE on the corner of Montgomery and Sutter Sts., which I really need while working there.

Love,
a sister

Dear Tribe Sisters and brothers,

There seemed no reason for you to express further your love for your oppressed brothers locked away in the numerous State supported warehouses of human flesh—euphemistically called prisons. Especially since your love in the past has reflected so brightly through your dedicated effort to keep informed, the many imprisoned comrades, who view the struggle for liberation as primal.

And yet, no greater love could you have shown for your brothers than that expressed by your decision to write the open letter (Tribe, Aug. 7-13, p.2, Vol.5, No.26).

The easier way out—a habit of fascist-piggish-capitalistic origin—would have been to rationalize the plight of imprisoned comrades, and then attempt to reconcile the contradiction. You chose rather to resolve the contradiction by educating the comrades to the meaning of the equality of our sisters; while at the same time, you related empathetically to that plight; but rightly, you declined to bullshit the comrades by pretending acceptance.

No comrade, who takes seriously the struggle, should be expected not to relate to your letter. We must all be willing to deal directly with non-antagonistic contradictions, and to resolve them. For in this willingness lie much of our strength. We know that from time to time contradictions will surface; but we equally know that the unity for which we strive—as well as the movement—cannot long survive absent a capacity for resolving these contradictions.

Revolutionary love
O.S., Folsom Prison

Dear Prisoners,

When you get the cards informing you that your sub to the TRIBE is getting close to being over, don't flip out. Just return the card to us saying that you are still a prisoner and the address is OK and the paper will still come to you. All the cards are for is to make sure the paper is still being received and the address is correct.

Viva

Over a month ago Calexico, Cal. was the starting point for "La Marcha Reconquista" which wound its way up the state through Coachella, LA, Oxnard, Bakersfield, and the Valley towards Sacramento. Late last week the marchers arrived at the capital city to begin a week long series of demonstrations.

On Saturday, the first and largest demonstration took place on the capitol mall. Approximately 2000 people were there to demand equal rights and justice for Chicanos, to protest the recent welfare cutbacks, and to call for an end to the racist policies of state and federal government toward La Raza. During the day an American Flag was lowered from a pole in the Capitol area and set on fire. The Mexican flag was raised in its place as the crowd cheered and raised their fists in a proud salute.

The police moved in after a short while and took the flag down. There was some tension at this point but there was no desire for violence as most people were there in large family groups, and the police withdrew without making any arrests.

On Tuesday some Tribe people were in Sacramento and we went to Southside Park and waited for the march to materialize. It was a sizzling 108 degrees. After a sweltering delay of an hour or so the 200 marchers set off toward the Capitol building behind the flags of Mexico and La Raza. In spite of the heat the marchers were spirited, shouting slogans rhythmically back and forth between the ranks. "Chicana—Power!" "Que Viva—La Raza!" "Raza Si—Reagan No!" "Brown Berets—All the way!"

Arriving at the Capitol they marched some more in a circle in front of the austere white building, blistering heat waves rising from the pavement. A little girl among the marchers began a chant of "Chicana—Power!" Onlookers wisely stayed in the shade.

The Chicanos spoke for about an hour, stressing their opposition to and hatred for Reagan. They emphasized especially the rights of Chicano prisoners who are subject to systematic racism and oppression by prison authorities. They voiced their support for the California Prisoners' Union (some members of the Union had been on the march). They demanded rights for prisoners, including an end to discrimination and minimum wages for those prisoners employed in labor camps.

The rally broke up and the Chicanos piled into two buses and headed for Folsom Prison for another rally. The TRIBE reporters, unfortunately, did not have as much endurance as split for the Bay Area, where the temperatures were 30 degrees cooler.

IRELAND

Last Monday morning a rumor spread throughout Ulster that the Prime Minister of Northern Ireland, Brian Faulkner, was declaring emergency powers to himself and would call for "protective internment" of leftists — in particular members of the "Green" IRA and of People's Democracy. Because of the rumor thousands of Gaels took to the street, constructing barricades of hijacked buses and rubble left over from previous street battles. These barricades were built around the Catholic areas of Derry, Belfast, and Newry to prevent the army and the Royal Ulster Constabulary (ROC) from carrying out the orders of Faulkner.

Protestants living in predominately Catholic sections of Ulster fled their homes but not before setting them on fire to "keep the Papists out of them". Over 100 homes were set afire. Millions of dollars of property have been destroyed.

Later in the day the rumors proved correct as the RUC, reinforced by British troops, attempted to enter Catholic areas and seize Irish leftists. They were first greeted by rocks, then Molotov cocktails, then gunfire from the aroused Irish. Over a dozen were killed and unknown hundreds were injured during the street battles.

The Northern Ireland Civil Rights Association (NICRA) called for a general strike in retaliation for the repressive policies of the Orangemen Government. What the various factions of the Irish Republican Army will do in retaliation is not yet known.

Because one of the targets of Faulkner's new policy is the People's Democracy collective (who are hardly clandestine "terrorists"), it is generally felt that the conservative government in London has concluded that the situation is more than just a petty tribal fight and that it is, indeed, approaching that of a political revolution.

People's Democracy, in its early stages, consisted primarily of Protestant university students with politics primarily liberal. They were radicalized by the savage attacks on them by the "B Specials" during a march from Belfast to Derry. Most then abandoned their old hopes of reforms through elections (a la Bernadette Devlin, who was an early member of People's Democracy) and decided to work more directly on the root of the problem: Capitalism and Anglo-American Imperialism.

New orleans

With a jury of ten blacks and two whites, twelve Panthers in New Orleans were found innocent of charges of attempted murder as a result of a shootout with police last September. The jury deliberated for one half hour. In his closing argument, defense attorney Robert Glass capsuled the absurdity of the charges saying, "When in the history of New Orleans have 150 men gone down with a tank to serve a simple arrest warrant?"

The shootout occurred the morning after a night of rioting in the housing project surrounding the National Committee to Combat Fascism office. The disturbances began when residents of the Desire housing project decided to deal with two undercover pigs by beating them and then telling them to get lost. The NCCF, which had been expecting a raid for about three weeks, decided that the pigs were sure to move after that incident, so they barricaded their office. At 8 am, September 15, the police raid began. On the pretext of serving warrants in connection with alleged beatings of undercover agents, several hundred New Orleans police and 20-30 state police with an armored van and two helicopters attacked the Panther office.

The spirit of the people prevailed in the neighborhood during the battle. Over 400 residents of the area gathered between the pigs and the office, chanting slogans. The cops also had to deal with sniper fire coming from all around the place, not just from the Panthers.

After more than an hour, the Panthers agreed to a cease-fire, after being promised amnesty. They were all arrested, despite the agreement. (Which just goes to show.) All power to peoples juries.

This is the complete transcript of an interview with Ruchell Magee made by A TRIBE staff member at San Quentin on Tuesday, August 10.

Ruchell: This is Ruchell Cinque Magee. Date August 10. This is a recent article written on July 30, 1971, which was in answer to a gag law that was made by Judge Conti (Federal Dist. Court judge, Samuel Conti) thereafter affirmed or remade by Judge Richard Chambers and Judge Charles Merrill.

TRIBE: Was this concerning the 1965 case?

R: This is what the issue is, you see, presently there's a case pending in the U.S. Dist. Court, Northern California. This is a case of Ruchell Magee vs. Gov. Ronald Reagan and others, which is case number 70491-RHS. This case is before Judge Robert H. Shinney. This case contains facts of false imprisonment, that is, conviction secured by known fraud. I say known fraud because of a plea that resulted in my being convicted. A plea of guilty in 1965 by one attorney, Clay H. Jack. This plea was used as a substitute for evidence which the state did not have to convict me.

T: Could you talk a little bit about what the 1963 bust was for?

R: This is the way it went. It was approximately 2 weeks prior to my being arrested, when me and one Ben Brown had a dispute over a young lady in the Club Tropicana in Los Angeles. At this time, Ben Brown pulled a pistol and put it in my face, and threatened me over the young lady. Thereafter, about 2 weeks later, which was March 22 we, my cousin, LeRoy Stewart and myself, went back to the same club. This time, we ran into the same young lady. The records will show that her name is Barbara, which was the name she gave me, but Ben Brown, who was the prosecution's chief witness, stated that her name was Lydia at the preliminary hearing and in the trial that her name was Linda. Anyway, I went back and I gave my cousin $10.00. Thereafter, he gave it to Linda, Barbara or whatever he name was for the purchase of some marijuana (3 joints). In other words, what it mainly was, was to get Brown out of the place. You know, we wanted to dock on him a little taste, you know from the prior little incident. This was a way to get him out of the club, rather than attacking him in the club. This resulted in my cousin, myself and the young lady going over to a club they call the Skylark. So, afterwards we had approximately 7 dollars which was left. The first trick didn't work, so we gave Brown and allowed him to keep the $7.00, for the purpose of prostituting with the broad, which was another scheme we were going to use to get him from the club. So, upon leaving the club, which was about 2:00, we left the club and went to 68th and Central. This is where Brown and myself had another dispute over the gun that was pulled. This resulted in myself and Brown getting into a brief scuffle and Brown jumps out of his car and runs.

Approximately an hour later the sheriffs returned and since we were in the car at the time, they requested Brown's car keys. I stated that I did not have the keys to Brown's car.

other guy had robbed him on about March 22. And I say something is strange and funny about it because prior to going into the preliminary hearing, I was approached by the court appointed attorney who's name was Leon Meyer, who at the time tells me, "You were not with Stewart on March 23. Stewart and another guy robbed William Greenfield." What he pointed out was that Stewart and another guy robbed Greenfield, and Stewart and another guy robbed Ben Brown.

Now, I'm going to run something down to you about this whole thing. Stewart had arrived from the state of Louisiana approximately 2 weeks prior to being arrested. Stewart was the type of guy, that around police officers, you know, that old home town fear thing; the guy's a quiet type of dude. And also, the guy was illiterate. This is what the police apparently had taken full advantage of, in doing what they did. Knowing that they had beaten me, and beaten Stewart, and had taken a confession from Stewart illegally (and I say illegally because they used no finesse), they held Stewart in jail for approximately 5 days prior to recording the confession March 27. If you know anything about the law, you'll know that it states that one must be taken before a magistrate within 48 hours. That's California penal code Sec. 825. It runs down the procedures on being taken before a magistrate prior to a confession of any nature, or holding one incommunicado until he confesses.

In this case, they've held one incommunicado, beaten him, thereafter taken a confession, and in taking a confession, they took a known false confession.

The trial records show that there is something awful, awful strange about Stewart's testimony because it shows where he can be at the club on March 23, but he's never been at the club before. There was approximately 3 to 4 witnesses taking the stand testifying that Stewart was at the club, and there's hundreds of people that know Stewart at the club, from being at the club with myself and others. Like I

Case # 70491-RHS

RUCHELL

They said that I'm a damn liar. They handcuffed me, and thereafter beat me, and likewise, they beat Stewart. They beat me to such a degree that it resulted in my being placed in the hospital.

Prior to my being placed in the hospital, that is following arrest, I was taken to the Los Angeles Firestone Sheriff Station. From there, after staying in the jail for approximately 3-4 hours in a cell coughing blood, I was taken to L.A. County Gen. Hospital. I stayed there from March 23rd to March 26th.

Then I was taken to L.A. County Jail. From there I was taken to Police Station No. 77. I was taken in a room and confronted with my cousin LeRoy Stewart, who at the time was instructed by police officer Jesus Majile and his fellow officers to relate to me the confession that he had related to them during prior interrogation. From there, Stewart related a confession that proves to be false, a confession that points something out to have occurred that could not possibly have happened prior to our being arrested on March 23rd. This confession was recorded on tape, which at the time was unknown to me, and I think was also unknown to Stewart.

T: Have you had a chance to talk to Stewart since then?

R: Oh I've had lots of time to talk to him. He was here in prison with me for a few years, prior to his being transferred.

T: Is he still inside?

R: No, he's out on parole now. Anyway, the case was brought to a preliminary hearing, and during this preliminary hearing, something strange happened, whereas there was an additional charge brought in, a charge of robbery against Stewart brought by one William Earl Greenfield who claimed that Stewart and ansaid, Stewart just gave a confession to come out from under that pressure, some of the same type of pressure which they'd used on me, but it got them nothing except the truth of what did happen.

Prior to that, I told them that I didn't want no talk about gettin' me a lawyer. So they kept on questioning me, and questioning me, and I said "fuck you," then, "fuck you in your ass, just get on away from me."

They tried to use this, but it didn't get them nothing, because when we got to the preliminary hearing, a police officer was questioned as to whether or not he had a tape recorder or a written statement pertaining to what he claims Stewart had told him. So, he states "no." But now this has been taken completely out of the record. So we get to trial and up jumps the tape recorder. They play this tape, and in playing the tape, after Brown gets on the stand, he states that we robbed and kidnapped him for 10 dollars. His testimony went like Stewart's testimony, pointing out something that happened that could not have possibly happened.

He gave the young lady 2 different names which proves it to be a lie. He comes back with confusing testimony that we approached him when he came out of the club; then he comes back and shows where we approached him as he got in his car. There was all types of conflicting testimony. The jury itself became emotional in disbelief; they indicated from the shaking of their heads that they didn't believe it themselves. Right away, the prosecutor recognizes it, I recognize it myself, the attorneys recognize it.

Then Stewart's attorney stands up and tells the trial judge and the jury, that "Stewart pleads guilty to the charge with Magee." I had testified about the club incident and the gun drawing thing. When I got off the stand, that's when this plea came about, by Stewart's lawyer. Following that, the prosecuting attorney, in his closing arguments, tells the jurors that we "can't use Mr. Brown's testimony. Mr. Stewart knows more about what happened. Therefore, if you find M. Stewart guilty, you find Magee guilty."

Let's go back to the opening arguments. It was then stated that any evidence used against Mr. Magee is not to be used against Mr. Stewart is not to be used against Mr. Magee. But now, during his closing arguments, he would find Mr. Magee guilty on Stewart's plea of guilty. However Stewart did not plead guilty; it was the court appointed attorney. And when I tried to point out to the judge and the court that Stewart did not plead guilty, that it was the attorney, the judge immediately runs me out of the courtroom, and runs the jurors out too. He never inquired into the involuntariness or anything. But, after the jurors found me guilty as requested on the plea of guilty, they sentenced me to life in prison.

After I attempted to appeal...

T: was that in '65?

R: 1963. I filed timely notice of appeal, requesting all records. They sent me a record. However, upon receiving and inspecting the records, I discovered that the records were not the records of my trial transcript. The only thing it had was my name on it. It showed a completely different trial. None of the lawyers pleas of guilty or anything was there.

T: What happened to those records during the time between the trial and when they sent you those records? How did they get falsified?

R: The records came from the court reporter, who at this time suppresses the records and refused to sell them. And has been refusing to sell those records. I know that once I cannot go back and thing to those records, then this leaves open the prosecutor to rely more shit to the records.

T: What's her supply you the records?

R: Some of the wasn't present at the get them, then when myself, she tells me to sent her first $79 for the prosecuting attorney sends me PORTIONS which I did not receive. So I want, you dig? So I want what part I want, what rest of it, since she writes back and tells now sell the record constructed by the trial records in part. If I have to buy the entire

T: People are worried. You know, there's fear going to cost a lot of people would be into kinds of things can

R: Well, the main time is propaganda, it's what the straight press. But anyway, this is like to have published statements on the cu T: No, we don't.

T: What did you feel about the severance of the case?

R: The severance? I feel it was quite necessary for the defense that I'm taking, you know, and that which I'm trying to do. On the other side, I was having a few difficulties trying to do what I'm doing, and interfering with what they was doing. See, they have something they have to do, and I have something that I have to do. So we have a completely different thing going, and I don't want theirs to interfere with mine.

My fight is to expose the entire system, judicial and prisoner system, the system of slavery, man, and this is not just a benefit to myself, but to all those who are at this time criminally oppressed or enslaved by the system. In other words, I feel that if we can expose this, which is one of the most shocking criminal cases I think that has even been recorded in Amerika, I think it would bring about what you call a congressional investigation, a people's investigation upon the system, to see what they are doing. And I think that upon inspection of some of the records, man, they will find that 95% of the people that's behind these walls and in these California prisons in particular are in prison illegally, from some type of misrepresentation and conspiracy by the court and the prosecutor. They have a whole racket going down there man.

There's a lot of people saying "pig, pig" with the suit on; they're talking about the police. But there's more pigs than the sucker with the suit on that you see with the badge on. Them lawyers are some of the worst pigs in the world.

a disgrace where the president himself has appointed a goddamn fool as a judge. That man don't even know how to look straight.

T: So one of your final goals, if you get into federal court, is to file charges against the state for conspiracy.

R: Right. That's before the court now. Appeal for removal. Also I attempted to bring charges Gary Thomas, District Attorney of Marin County, in conspiracy with Los Angeles officials behind this racist slave case where they jumped up and killed the judge and attributed the murders to me. I filed criminal complaint to the U.S. Commission. This fool Samuel Conti grabbed the damn complaint going to the commission and jumped up and verbalized it and claimed somebody spilled it to him, when it wasn't even addressed to him. And the complaint's never got to the commission yet.

T: Well, what can be done about that? I mean, how can that be remedied through legal means.

R: Well, through legal means, it could be through the press attacking him and exposing him. See, in other words, he's been caught with his hands in the cookie jar, it's none of that diddly shit, because he ain't got no rulings to make that. So this is why I say it requires publication now in order to inform the people, enlighten them as to what's happening. Because they call the documents frivolous. The documents are not frivolous, the facts are contained in here and laid out perfectly.

So let's go back to the case of Magee vs. Judge Walker and Sheriff Stevens of Los Angeles. This was case number 20809, U.S. 9th Circuit Court of Appeals 1966. This is where I'm on appeal from a 22 million dollar civil suit. Now I've served the defendant's copies, to the judge and the sheriff, and also the city counsel, the DA. They failed to answer. So what Ricky Chambers did, he doubles up and turns around and says I did not serve him a copy. He dismissed the suit on these grounds alone. So I go back and try to show him where I did serve him. He drives over there. He don't want to hear that, he don't want to see that. So I tries to appeal to the US Supreme Court. He gets the clerk to juggle the records. Then he gets the clerk of the US Supreme Court whose name is Edward C. Shea, to block the records. You dig where I'm at? So I go back to the district court, which is the central district of Los Angeles, the US district in Los Angeles, with a separate complaint against the sheriff on police brutality. This was the sheriff who jumped on me in the courtroom during the 1965 trial for my attempt to speak, that is concerning the illegal conviction.

At this time I paid the US marshal, I think it was $4.50 to go across the street and serve him, to make damn sure he gets the copy. You dig where I'm at? This lousy dog jumps up then Tribe: With all these conspiracy charges by prisoners, and all that's going on...what do you think of prisoner's unions and the organizing that's been going on inside?

R: Well that's what they're doing, but they can't get the right contact with the right people. They run into a lot of people who are like running off at the mouth about materialistic things, you know, rather than getting down to the hard core facts of the thing, which is slavery, man, and bringing this out. And when you say it, argue it, support your argument with facts rather than just talking about something way off track. Get to the point of just what's happening. I see hundreds and hundreds saying, "We need prison reform for this and prison reform for that," but when they say this, the prison officials double right back and show to the press where we have added telephones in the prison and we now have allowed prisoners to write letters to anybody they want to write to. And that's a lousy lie because if the letters say anything about illegal convictions they will never get out, you know. But they just show themselves in that good light now, all they're doing is capitalizing on that watered down junk which those folk supposed to be supporting the prisoners have gave the public. They bring it in and water it down you know.

T: Well, what do you think can be done to organize around the real issues you know.

R: Well, I'll tell you what can be done. One of the main things can be done—is like a group that's protesting and trying to get a point over...behind these prison walls. You take that group and support it and give it a chance to be widely heard, nationwide if possible, be heard by the people...damn the government because that's who they're talking about; you know, Nixon can't investigate himself. So giving them the opportunity, access to the press, you dig with me?...a chance to present fully what they're speaking of, and what they're trying to get across. From there SUPPORT THEM. Further to bring out those issues that pertain to others that don't have the ability to get off their dead ass and speak for themselves. You got people that want to say something or do something, but they're afraid that they won't get a parole date. So the one that gets up off his ass and tries to do something for himself, he's immediately named a troublemaker or an instigator and thereafter he's locked down with some kind of phony beef in an adjustment center or in some damn hole here and that's to put fear in the next one, you dig? And the only way to prevent things like that is by criminal charges...I know many prisoners that will file criminal charges against Louis Nelson and would have valid issues. Have someone to support them when they file—let the people know what's being filed and what it's based upon.

T: Now once those things are filed, you know better than anybody, they just get show-

You know when they play that verbal show with the judge and the DA. Then they might get up and cuss each other out just to make the show look better. And the people are given the understanding that a lawyer is mad with the system and he's righteously getting down, he's fighting, he had a fight with the judge, he had an argument with the DA, and he ain't doing nothing but playing a game, and playing on their ignorance. These things must be exposed, man, because these are the things that at this time are causing this entire country right now, to be turned over like it is, riots and lynching, you know how it is.

So I say these things have to be exposed, and the only way we're going to expose them is by the news media out there, and we have to take that underground because the free press is pro-Nixon. And they're not going to do nothing. They're going to take a man that knows what's happening and make him look like a moron. I'm supposed to be a moron; when I was on trial, I was insane. Now, when I try to come out from under that shit, they put up on me; they're going to stick another criss-cross ass bullshit to me.

You know, you talk to the straight press, you talk to them, they come in and pretend they are going to do one thing; then they go right back out and verbalize it down, they'll take that which you give them and put it in such a watered down manner..

T: It's far out that you've been sending stuff to the TRIBE. It'll get out to the right people.

R: Right on. These are some of the guys that righteously need exposing, because these are some of the biggest criminals in California. Man, that's Richard Chambers, Charles Merrill; there's the U.S. 9th Circuit Court of Appeals, and that buzzard Samuel Conti. Man, I feel it's and files a brief back into the court saying that the case has once been heard by the court, therefore he's immune from prosecution, based on what Chambers had said. He didn't get a copy, now he gets a copy. Now he relies on Chambers' bullshit order. Now to show you what Chambers does, recently, which was June 29, Chambers states that Magee has filed 30 documents in his court contesting his conviction in this Marin County thing. So what I'm saying is that one of those 30 documents he counted was the suit which I'm speaking of now. Now he illegally dismissed me, and has taken advantage of his own damn wrong, but applying it to me, using this as an argument to deny me the right to file documents in the court. But he can't stop me from filing documents, all he can do is what he's been doing for 8 years and that's just hold the damn documents. So the gag rule was no more than a publicity stunt, because he's been holding the damn documents for 8 years.

T: If this thing gets through, then that'll give other prisoners in the state a chance to file similar charges?

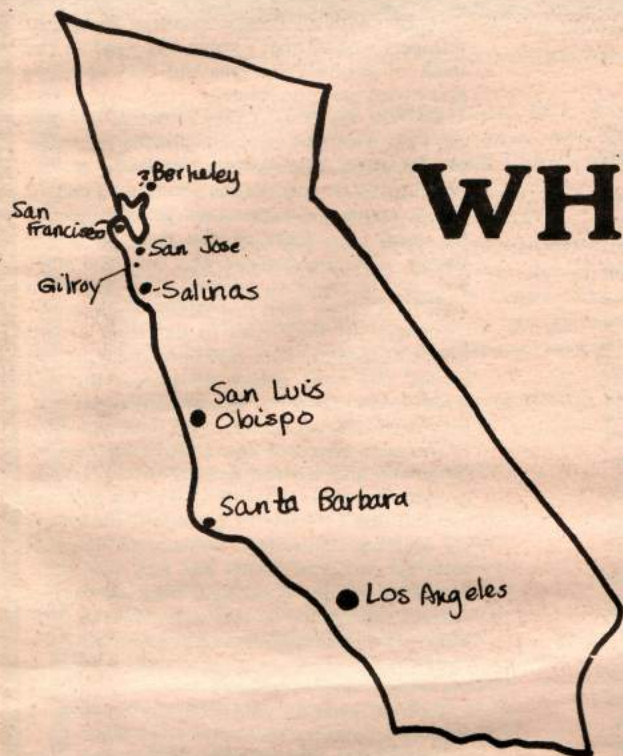

R: Right. Once you can expose that these judges are in direct conspiracy with one another, and that they are just outright denying prisoners, or persons illegally held in prisons, their rights to file documents, their rights to be heard, once this can be established as facts, and can be shown to the people where these dogs are practicing slavery under cover of law, then this automatically will require a special investigation by the people to look for themselves. They will find that these judges are criminals, and that as long as they're in office, it's going to be forever just what they got going now. They're going to destroy themselves and everybody else.

eled away and people don't pay attention to them. Assuming that people publicize them, do you think that real changes...

R: Man, listen. Everytime you get an issue hit down on a lead-pipe, cinch issue in the courtroom, prison officials immediately lock down on the mails. So this is what I know from experience, that if one can get out what he's trying to say when he has a real issue, I don't mean no frivolous bullshit—I mean a real issue—he gets it in the eyes of the peoples. The courts automatically act, man, because the courts have a duty, obligation, to perform for the people. When you can show the people that the courts are not doing this, the people are going to wonder where their tax money's gone on the tax issue. This is where you're going to have to show them that this useless, opinionated son of a bitch is sitting up on his stinking ass playing god and fucking over you and your loved ones. Now, when you bring forth an issue that's a true issue, one that cannot be disputed and disproved by the buzzard, exposing this to the people, the judge immediately, like a dog, will try to show himself in a good light. He can't show his real self, Hitler style, Hitler tactics. He cannot show the people this, because he's aware that the people will kill his stinking ass. So if you expose him, he'll have no alternative but to act. That's what you call public pressure, put it on his ass. But when you call it public pressure with watered-down bullshit, they can always counteract that. That's the government, that's how it works, through counteracting shit.

T: What do you think about the Angela Davis Committee?

WHICH HIKING YOU'LL HITCH LIKING

It's summer and the time is right for going on the road. Last weekend, a friend and I hitched to Southern California, and I thought it would be a good idea to talk about hitching up and down the state, and locally.

WHICH IS THE BEST WAY?

Going from the Bay Area to L.A. (and vice versa), you have 3 choices. Highway 99 goes through the San Joaquin Valley, Fresno, Bakersfield. It's hot, boring and the towns aren't good places to be stuck in. I usually end up in Fresno and regret it.

My friend and I took 101 South. It's almost all freeway, hot, but the scenery is a little more interesting than 99. Lots of little towns, then nothing but golden velvety hills in summer, and green velvet in the winter. Don't forget to take advantage of the Famous California Wineries.

For safety reasons, and to have someone to talk to while you're stuck somewhere-always hitch with a buddy. This is especially important for women. Don't take a ride with 3 men in a 2 door car. If a car pulls up and you don't trust the vibes-just say "no thanks," even if you're in Morro Bay. It's better to wait awhile than be sorry. Long hitches should be done with a minimum time limit. It's really impossible to know what kind of rides you'll get, so don't let yourself get hassled over time.

PLACES TO STEER CLEAR OF:

San Jose- takes a long time to get a ride and when you do, chances are the driver isn't going far.

Salinas- Bad news! It's away from the freeway and is a veritable ghost town largely populated by dinosaurs.

San Luis Obispo- In spite of several state hysterical monuments (the Hearst crib), it is also the home of the largest National Guard training camp in the U.S. The California Men's Colony is also there. The people that live there seem very different from other people in the state (like misplaced Orange Countians).

Morro Bay- close to San Luis Obispo. Cars are few. If you do get stuck there, it's a nice place to have a picnic and relax.

Santa Maria- a beach town north of Santa Barbara. If you get a ride there, make sure that you end up hitching at the Main St. on ramp. Lots of cruisers and people who have absolutely no mercy for any lousy free-loaders.

Any of the beach towns are OK (not good, but not Fresno) until 4pm, that's when people leave the beach- so no cars.

There are a few towns where the freeway ends and becomes Main St USA. An example is Gilroy. These are pretty good places to hitch from (except for 1 place I'll get to later). Don't hitch from the center of town- get on the outskirts and go from there. Be careful not to take rides to unheard of places. Eventually (usually soon), a car comes by that's going to a better spot.

Sooner or later, you'll be in Santa Barbara. The freeway ends and there are 3 or 4 signals going through the main part of town. I noticed on our way back up (we were there for 2 hours) that not many people were going south, the turn-over seemed pretty good. Once you get to Santa Barbara, you'll probably get a direct ride to L.A.-don't take it if it isn't.

If you happen to be going further South, stick to the ocean- cause when you get to the Bircher Belt (Orange County for you out-of-staters), the going gets rough and full of bothersome interruptions.

HIGHWAY ONE

Highway 1, Cabrillo Highway, or Pacific Coast Highway is the only road in Amerikkka worth travelling. (yes I am native California chauvinist). You go through incredible natural progressions, have rolling hills on one side, the Famous California Coastline to the other, with it's Jagged Rocks and the Pounding Surf Crashing at your side. Or you can be inbetween tall rocks and cool trees feeling all safe and protected from the mysterious sea.

Going South-North, it's a strange thing to have these yellow, dry hills and thirsty rocks to one side with this powerful amount of wet and cold on the other. And then, all of a sudden, quicker than you can say "off the pig", you're in the mountains, winding along a skinny two lane road with fir trees, and pine trees everywhere, along with a forever moistness and cool.

Highway 1 is the best way to see California. It speaks well for California, it gives you a relaxed energy.

If you hitch on 1, remember that it takes a couple extra hours of road time (well worth it). If you ARE feeling rushed, take 101, but if you have a couple of days, take it easy. Another advantage to 1 is that hitchers are more spread out, making waiting time less. If you're going from South-North, and get let off in Santa Barbara, remember to prepare yourselves for a long wait. When we were there, there was another man who had been there for 3 days.

LOCAL

Hitching within San Francisco or Berkeley seems to be going through a slump. In San Francisco, it's difficult to get rides even at the popular freeway entrances (Broadway, Gough, Oak). I don't know why it's so tough. For the amount of traffic (largely singularly occupied vehicles, or cars with longhairs) that goes by. It seems insane that waiting time is getting to the 20-30 minute point. Some people complain that it's a drag to give rides to people only going a mile or so. I can't really see that as a justification for not giving a person a ride.

If you are hitching in the city, try to hitch from a place that's easy for the driver to stop at. I've had lots of people complain that it was impossible to stop for someone if she/he was inbetween parked cars. Bus stops are natural stopping places and should be taken advantage of. They are designed as places for vehicles to stop at.

I can criticize the local hitching only on the basis that there are thousands of empty cars on the streets and enough hitchhikers to fill them. I can't seem to figure out how/why so many people are uptight about hitchhikers. Sisters!!!! PLEASE give your sisters rides. It's a drag getting raped and generally fucked over by macho car maniacs.

People with cars, for a lot of people hitching answers the needs of transportation that the bus systems fail to provide.

Now that the grass famine is more or less over, let's do something about the driver famine.

Could it be that the scientists will have to consult with the military technicians applying their research to weaponry? This suggests again the WMIR will be doing CBW research.

The Army claimed that if CBW research was being planned, the Army would have to be installing at the Presidio "large vats, like a brewery" similar to those at the Pine Bluff Arsenal in Arkansas. Colonel Akers, a "high raking usually reliable source" knows very well that large vats are needed only if you are planning to produce large quantities of biological agents. The Pine Bluff Arsenal has such vats because it is a production center: but Fort Detrick does not, even though until now it has been the major center for research on biological weapons. By stating that W.M.I.R. will not be a production facility, Colonel Akers evaded the question as to whether research on biological weapons will be undertaken. Colonel Akers' remarks are typical of the deceptive, red-herring language used by the military in denying the expanding chemical and biological weapons program.

COMBAT confronted the Army with the charge that CBW research was going to be done at W.M.I.R. The Army naturally denied the charge. COMBAT, after much fact gathering and investigation, has concluded that biological weapons research is one of the objectives of the Western Medical Institute of Research. COMBAT is dedicated to exposing the US government's involvement with CBR weapons research and harassing the government until they cease their genocidal weapons policies. COMBAT makes the following demands on the Government and the US military: (are they really separate anyway)

1. That all US stockpiles of chemical/biological/radiological weapons in the United States and in Asia be destroyed.

2. That the government of the United States immediately ratify the Geneva Convention standards (as defined by the United Nations) governing the development and use of chemical and biological weapons and that the United States end all offensive and defensive research related to CBRW weaponry.

3. That further planning and construction for the Western Medical Institute of Research cease immediately until control of all chemical and biological research is given to civilians and until a Citizens' Review Committee from Third World communities is given on the spot inspection rights at WMIR.

To keep the people informed, the Coalition opposed to Medical and Biological Attack has begun to publish a monthly newspaper COMBAT. Their first issue is out-it reprints Larson's article "Ethnic Weapons", and details the history of the government's avoidance of the Geneva Convention standards and the lies Nixon tells us about CBR warfare. Burying Blues for Janice

Your voice always whacked me right on the funny bone of the great-hearted suffering bitch fantasy that ruled me like a huge copper moon with its phases until I could partially break free.
How could I help but cherish you for my bad dream?
Your voice would grate right on the marrow-filled bone that cooks up the rich stew of masochism where we swim.
Woman is born to suffer, mistreated and cheated.
We are trained to that hothouse of exploitation.
Never do we feel so alive, so in character as when we're walking the floor with the all night blues.
When some man not being there who's probably better gone becomes a lack that swells up to a gaseous balloon and flattens from us all thinking and sensing and purpose.
Oh, the downtrodden juicy longdrawn female blues:
you throbbed up there with your face slightly swollen and your barbed hair flying energized and poured it out, the blast of a furnace of which the whole life is the fuel.
You embodied that good done-in mama who gives and gives like a fountain of boozy chicken soup to a ratrace of men.
You embodied the pain hugged to the breasts like a baby.
You embodied the beautiful blowsy gum of passivity, woman on her back to the world endlessly hopelessly raggedly offering a brave front to be fucked.
That willingness to hang on the meathook and call it love, that need for loving like a screaming hollow in the soul, that's the drug that hangs us and drags us down deadly as the icy sheet of skag that froze your blood.

What she waited for

You called yourself a dishwater blonde body warm and flat as beer that's been standing.
You always had to stand until your feet were sore behind the counter with a smile like an oversized safety pin holding your lips off your buck teeth.
Most nights alone or alone with men who wiped themselves in you.
Pass the damp rag over the counter again
Tourist cabins and roadhouses of the deaf loudmouth, ponds where old boots swim and drive-in moons.
You came to see yourself as a salesman's bad joke.
What did you ever receive for free except a fetus you had to pay to have out?
Troubles cured you salty as a country ham, smoky to that taste, thick skinned and tender inside
but nobody could take nourishment for lacking respect.
No husband, no baby, no house, nobody to own you public as an ahstray you served waiting for the light that came at last straight into the windshield on the highway.
Two days later the truckers are pleased.
Your replacement is plain but ten years younger.
Women's lives are shaped like cheap coffins.
How long will she wait for change?

R: They're not bringing down the issues like they're supposed to. They come up with a mostly bullshit star image. I say Angela must be free, but not because of that bullshit star image that she's been getting from the mass-controlled news media nosing around her. She should be free because of the conditions of oppressed peoples. Black, particularly.

That Hollywood bullshit, there's no time for that. She's been to a university, everybody knows this, so she's been to a university. Now, what about that goddamned illegal charge in that goddamned illegal conspiracy? What about the conspiracy that's against her, with the conspiracy that's against Ronald Reagan and Nixon now pending in a district court on a civil suit, which nobody can answer to in the matter of Ruchell Magee vs. Ronald Reagan (Goddamn him!) in Northern District Court, that's 7491, before Robert H. Shinnery, Reagan's appointee, concealing the allegation to hide Reagan's goddamned ass, which led to the Marin County act of August 7th, the slave rebellion. Reagan knows all about it, but he's trying to use Angela to camouflage things, to make it look like something other than it's all about.

You see, I have a right to have a gun and any other goddamned thing to overcome this big old racist case and still have a right, and will use that right anyway that's possible to get my hands on some hardware, because I know that the system is a bunch of shithead motherfuckers supervising a lot of bullshit, instigating bullshit, and continuing to cause the shit that's going on in this country today, and other countries, with verbalized bullshit.

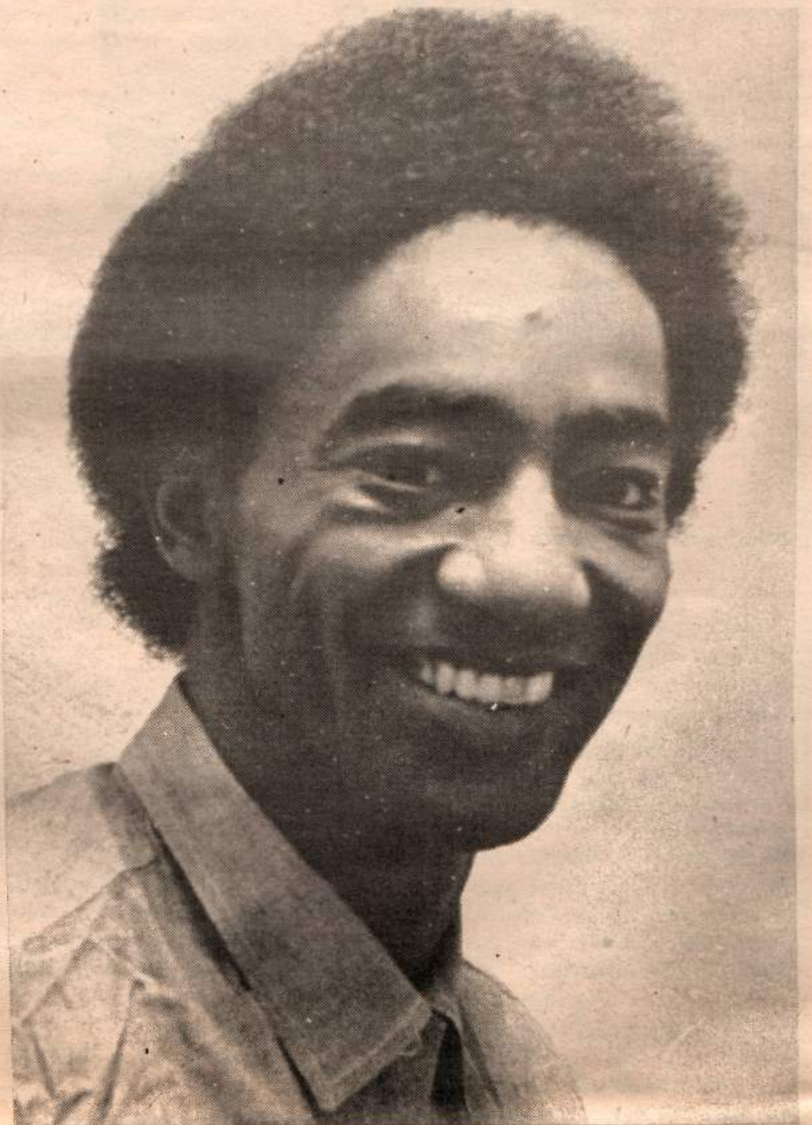

Everybody knows Reagan is a lying son of a bitch, but nobody goes to Reagan and knocks on his motherfuckin' head like it's supposed to be knocked on. See, I couldn't call myself a man knowing what I know now, walking the streets, even allowing a buzzard like Nixon and Reagan to even exist on this planet, doing to my people what them dogs have done at this day and time. I couldn't call myself a man, one way or the other. I'd trail that motherfucker if I had to put dynamite in the highway and tear his ass to pieces, and that's what you call not a threat, but a fact.

T: What do you think the wide range implications are of the Aug. 7 Marin County shoot-out, being one of the heaviest military actions the liberation forces have carried out?

R: Right on. Well, it might be one which you call one of the heaviest ones now, but there are a lot more to come, 'cause people are beginning to wake up. As long as they're making peaceful moves, or whether it's violent moves, as long as its coming from the system, they will forever be oppressed. You have to deal on your own tactics, the right tactics. I say comply with the Declaration of Independence, whereas you have a right to take up arms to oppose any abuse of government, particularly the type of corruption in government that we have today, man. You know we have a lying president, and in every damn state we have a lying governor, making promises that they goddamn will never keep, and never try to, but just merely to be here to keep the people following that bullshit unstitutions! ass authority they been giving out.

T: What do you think of the effectiveness of the actions of August 7th? Do you think they will be able to be effective in the future? Or do you think that the guards will always shoot and kill the judge anyway?

R: Well, it wasn't what you'd call shooting the judge, they was shooting to keep some facts from getting out. See, there's more behind the case which I haven't revealed up to this time, which will tear the whole system of lies to pieces. They know what it is, you know what I mean. Like a lot of people think that when I was filing documents from fear or something like that. But it was not like this. When I was filing documents, I knew what I was doing. Just like I knew that at a later date they were going to kick my ass on the side. I know what they're going to do next, as soon as I cut loose with the next little piece.

You know, I'm taking it piece by piece because you can get so much out—things like hard core facts and truth, man, and people will disbelieve it, because their minds aren't set and ready for it yet. There's still people who know the government's a bunch of dirty dogs, but they don't believe the government is doing what they are really doing. So you have to take it piece by piece, like I say, some of the things Huey brought out and exposed about the pigs and how they're misusing and abusing the people, through misusing their power. He goes unnoticed, man, by the majority of the communities. He goes unnoticed, because everyday, when he says one thing...

T: Who's this? Huey?

R: I'm speaking of Huey. Just for example, like the time when he got this beef on. Now I was here in prison but what would you think in your mind: you follow the circumstances. Here's a man driving down the street. Police officers just happen, just HAPPEN now, to stop Huey P. Newton. Now would you say he had been following them all the time? And would you say me being what I am, and I consider myself as a revolutionary, a man like Huey, I would not even ask Huey to take up his slack. When I say take up his slack, that means protect his back. Automatically I know that the state would kill him just like they killed King and all the others that were trying to do things for the people. This would be my duty, to protect him—that is, like, trail him everywhere he goes. Although you might not always see me, I'd be there. Now a pig fuck with him, I'd tear his ass to pieces man and wouldn't waste no time. Because I know what his purpose was. That's the way I look at it.

They meant to do one thing but the shit backfired on them. They got their ass tore up. Now they're bringing Huey to trial. And seriously, now they're going to do a third trial, when they know what the setup was, and everybody knows. All you have to do is just look at it.

ruchell

Just for example, the Dedweiler case: what happened to Dedweiler? Now here's an undisputed murder in Los Angeles. Where the police say he stuck his hand in the car door and the car just happened to jump off. That's the coldest shit in town. Now, when his old lady gets up to try to tell what happened...

PIG: 5 more minutes!

R: You have somebody else ten yards away or 15 feet away they tell you that they seen it another way. So all the type of bullshit things have to be dealt with by the people themselves, you know. The government cannot protect one who seeks to destroy it.

T: Do you consider yourself a Panther? And what do you feel about the Panther organization?

R: The Panthers are the only organization I know that's moving forward and taking the people forward. They're struggling, you know.

T: Are you a member of the Panthers?

R: Well, I don't know. I consider myself a member of anything that's moving in the direction of the people, you know, and the struggle. That means I can be a Panther or a Tribe or whatever you might call it, you know.

The Devils is not a film for everyone...

It is a true story, carefully documented, historically accurate — a serious work by a distinguished film maker. As such it is likely to be hailed as a masterpiece by many. But because it is explicit and highly graphic in depicting the bizarre events that occurred in France in 1634, others will find it visually shocking and deeply disturbing.

We feel a responsibility to alert you to this before the picture opens. It is our hope that only the audience that will appreciate THE DEVILS will come to see it.
